

Season 3 Episode 18

The Crime of Eternity

Clock King is in his secret hideout where he goes over plans from some book that contains details on universe marbles and the Ultraverse. Clock King crafts a portal machine. Clock King said, "If I calibrate this interuniversal domain controller node so that it matches the frequency of this universe's connection with the Ultraverse, I will be able to access the Ultraverse. Of course, I am going to add my time travel technology to the mix." Clock King uses clock parts and his own time travel technology to the portal. A large list of years and time indexes show up on a screen. Clock King goes back through all the indexes and he goes to the very first possible date in the timeline. Clock King activates the portal and he steps into the portal and he ends up in a pitch black void. Clock King checks a watch that shows the date and time. Clock King said, "Perfect. This is exactly where I want to be. I am in the center of the Ultraverse before anything existed. The Ultraverse itself technically doesn't exist yet." Clock King grabs a scepter and he waves it around and he makes objects form and he plays around with matter and manipulates matter to create life forms and worlds.

Jason and Mason are at Captain Fusion's lair and Jason and Mason help Captain Fusion connect the wiring Justice Knight gave them in an earlier episode. Captain Fusion said, "With this wiring connected, the lair will be shielded from any changes in the timeline." Jason said, "Now we don't have to worry about losing Captain Fusion if some freak rewrites history again." Captain Fusion said, "The wiring should allow signals to be received from outside sources. Your lab computer should be pinged by my own computer." Captain Fusion goes to the lair computer and he pings Mason's lab and it returns nothing. Captain Fusion said, "Something's not right. I am getting a null signal from Mason's lab computer." Mason looks at his watch and the screen on it is blank. Mason said, "My watch tells me the status of my lab at any given time and it is giving me nothing." Captain Fusion said, "Either the shielding is stopping us from receiving signals or there is something horribly wrong with Mason's computer." Mason said, "I want the former of those to be the case." Jason said, "Why do I think it is going to be the latter?"

Jason, Mason, and Captain Fusion leave the lair and the outside world looks completely different. Jason said, "What happened to our world?" Mason said, "There must have been another rewrite in history." The sky is red with streaks of a different shade of red. Jason, Mason, and Captain Fusion walk around the city and they see the architecture of buildings look black and sharp. They see statues of Clock King everywhere and everyone is walking around wearing Clock King shirts and buttons that contain the head of Clock King. Jason, Mason, and Captain Fusion spot Clock King on everyone and Captain Fusion said, "Clock King. I should have known. He is overdue for another antic involving time." Jason said, "Clock King? Isn't he that mama's boy that lives in his mother's basement and studies time travel? What a waste?" Mason said, "This could be serious. It looks like my lab and everything we have outside Captain Fusion's lair doesn't exist." Guards with Clock King's head on their heads spot Jason, Mason, and Captain Fusion. The lead guard said, "Where are your Clock King shirts and Clock King buttons?" Captain Fusion said, "Can you explain what is going on here?" The guard said, "I can explain what is going on here. It is that you are not honoring our lord and savior, Clock King and you should all be punished accordingly." Captain Fusion knees the guard in the crotch and he smacks the others in the face and they all fall flat on the ground. Jason,

Mason, and Captain Fusion run away. Jason said, "We should get some Clock King shirts and buttons so we won't get arrested again." Mason gives Jason a stern look. Captain Fusion said, "He's right you know. We should play along. We need to know as much as we can about Clock King's plot so we will know how to dismantle it."

Jason, Mason, and Captain Fusion go to a store in the city that is filled with Clock King shirts, buttons, and other Clock King related merchandise. Jason, Mason, and Captain Fusion pick out shirts and buttons and they go to the front counter to buy the shirts and buttons and the clerk said, "Sorry but I cannot sell these to you." Jason said, "How come?" The clerk said, "I cannot sell anything to people that don't wear Clock King shirts nor buttons and also, I don't know what kind of currency is this? United States of America? Is this some kind of joke?" The clerk presses a button and guards are summoned into the store. The guards surround Jason, Mason, and Captain Fusion. Captain Fusion takes the shirts and buttons they want to buy and he grabs onto Jason and Mason and picks them up. Captain Fusion dashes around the guards and jumps through the store window smashing it and they escape from the store.

Jason, Mason, and Captain Fusion put on their Clock King shirts and buttons. Signals are transmitted from the buttons and they are sent to Clock King's large pyramid lair in the center of the main capital city. El Dorro is one of Clock King's workers and he looks over all the registered citizens of Clock King's dominion and a red light flashes on a screen showing Jason, Mason, and Captain Fusion as new registered citizens. El Dorro looks at them and he goes through records and he finds records of Jason, Mason, and Captain Fusion and the record has a note that reads, "If admitted, alert Clock King." The worker goes to Clock King's throne and Clock King said, "What is it?" The worker said, "We were told to inform you if Jason, Mason, and or Captain Fusion get admitted as citizens of your humble dominion. Well that has happened." Clock King said, "Good. I was wondering when they were going to show up. They are the only real threat to my dominion. I have conquered all the other evils in the Ultraverse but those two rectangle headed freaks and their mad man superhero friend."

Jason said, "We should be safe now?" Mason said, "We are wanted criminals now." Captain Fusion said, "We must learn about the history of this place. The best place to find out that kind of information is from this history museum." Captain Fusion points to the history museum. Jason said, "How are we going to get in without any money?" Captain Fusion said, "I have an idea." Captain Fusion walks to a bank machine that has a screensaver on the screen showing a 3D model of Clock King with a 3D logo saying, "Bank of Clock King." Captain Fusion punches the bank machine and currency of all sorts with Clock King on them rains out of the machine. Jason, Mason, and Captain Fusion take all the currency.

Jason, Mason, and Captain Fusion join a tour group in the museum. They are shown the first exhibit and the tour guide said, "Our existence began in a time way before any of us could imagine where absolutely nothing existed. That is nothing but our great lord and savior, Clock King." The tour guide shows a large ancient stone statue of Clock King. The tour guide said, "Clock King was born in a world that existed long before ours and was troubled and filled with despair. Clock King managed to escape from that world to find a void of nothingness. Clock King used his magical godly powers to form and craft the Ultraverse which is a collective of different universes. We live in a universe that is contained in a marble like this one and we live in a grand Ultraverse filled with these marbles." Jason raises his hand and Jason said, "What is the Ultraverse like and what are all the other universes in it like?" The tour guide said, "That's a good question. Each and every universe and the Ultraverse is just like this universe. It is peaceful and free of violence and renegades and most importantly, it is ruled by Clock King."

The tour continues and Jason goes through the currency and he sees a vending machine. Jason goes to the vending machine and Jason said, "An orange soda would be nice right now." Jason places some coins in the vending machine and he selects the orange soda and he gets an orange soda can with Clock King on the can. Jason opens it and drinks it and he spits it out. Jason said, "This orange soda tastes like crap. What gives?" Jason looks at the ingredients and they are all chemicals with Clock King's name in them. There's Clocktasium, Clocksium, Clockinic, Clocknetics... Jason said, "I guess with Clock King ruling the Ultraverse, he created all the substances himself." Jason throws the can away. Jason said, "At least I have a stash in Captain Fusion's unaltered lair. I will always cherish that good stuff."

The tour group goes to the next exhibit and they see Clock King fighting against some mythical creature and stabbing it with a long spear. The tour guide said, "Clock King uses a magic scepter that serves as his most prized possession and his greatest weapon. He keeps it on him at all times and it allows him to perform magic as well as stab the life out of evil creatures." They go to the next room and there are trophies on the wall. The tour guide said, "These are trophies of every single person that opposed Clock King." Jason, Mason, and Captain Fusion look at them all and there are three empty spaces on the end and they read, "Jason", "Mason", and "Captain Fusion." Mason said, "Clock King must be expecting us. It is as if he knew we would survive the changes he made to the Ultraverse."

The tour group walks around battle robots and time matrix machines. The tour guide said, "Clock King prides himself in his ability to create technologies to better our society. He has built advanced armor that can only be broken with his spear in case any of his men betray him. He also built a matrix to correct inaccuracies in recording of his history to assure his history remains unaltered. He even built, his own food and drink creators to supply us with all his fine foods and drinks. In this next exhibit... It is on the one and only achievement that Clock King never made." The tour guide goes to the next exhibit and they see statues of Jason, Mason, and Captain Fusion. The tour guide said, "These are the twins Jason and Mason with their fruity superhero friend, Captain Fusion. Mason is a brainiac that wishes he can be just as smart as Clock King so he does what he can to prove Clock King wrong. What Mason doesn't know is that Clock King is right and he is wrong. Next to him is his dumb twin brother, Jason. Jason looks just like Mason but his hair is blond and he is really dumb. He is the kind of person that would do cooking but instead he would do the very opposite of that which is crapping in his pants. Jason's brain is made out of mud and crap. He would not get very far in life if it weren't for his twin Mason and their superhero friend, Captain Fusion and say, these guests of ours look just like them." The tour guide points to the real Jason, Mason, and Captain Fusion in the tour. Jason said, "What a coincidence. We look so much alike." The tour guide smiles and said, "I don't think this is a coincidence. I think you are the only people Clock King never defeated. Get them!!! We had drills in school for this. Remember your training everyone." All the tourists gang up on Jason, Mason, and Captain Fusion and they start beating them up. Jason smacks one of them in the face but then that tourist picks up Jason and flips him backwards. Mason takes out his boxing glove on a coil and he punches down some of the tourists but one of them grabs the glove and breaks it off the coil. Captain Fusion grabs onto Jason and Mason and runs away with them.

Captain Fusion runs with Jason and Mason and they run through the Clock King exhibits. Security doors are closing everywhere. Captain Fusion spots a door closing and he runs to the door and he makes it in before the door closes. They are in an astronomy exhibit where planets hang on strings from the ceiling. Captain Fusion jumps on one of the planets with Jason and Mason. Clock King's men and tourists show up and they block all the exits. Clock King's men jump on the planets and Captain Fusion makes his planet swing and he swings it into the other planets destroying them. Captain Fusion jumps off his planet and he kicks it into a wall and it breaks a wall leaving an exit. Jason, Mason, and Captain Fusion run out the exit and they get blocked by a large swarm of Clock King's men. They all jump on Jason, Mason, and Captain Fusion and pin them down and handcuff them.

Jason, Mason, and Captain Fusion are brought to Clock King's pyramid. Jason, Mason and Captain Fusion are dragged by one of Clock King's top of the top men. Jason is held loosely and Jason breaks free. The top guard still drags Mason and Captain Fusion to Clock King's throne. Mason and Captain Fusion are in front of Clock King. Clock King said, "Where's the blond haired one?" The guard said, "He escaped sir." Clock King said, "That's fine. That blond twin is an idiot. He is just going to get himself killed walking around my lair. So, Captain Fusion, what do you think of what I made?" Captain Fusion said, "You always lose. You can never fully rule over the world and you can never truly alter the history that is meant to be." Clock King said, "Oh but I can. You will never understand the power that I have. I have far more technology than you and I have far more resources than what you can ever imagine. I know how you survived. You have that special hidden magical lair of yours that is immune to my alterations. All you have is that small box and I have an entire Ultraverse against you. Who will win?" Mason said, "You may have all the power of the Ultraverse but we have better tactics and philosophies than you." Clock King said, "What a bold claim. Your universe was not perfect before so I made it perfect. There is no more war." Mason said, "That's because you kill anyone that opposes you." Clock King said, "Exactly. If your universe did that, all those great wars and tragedies you know of would not exist."

Jason sees a door open and El Dorro dressed as a Clock King worker sticks his head out and sees Jason. He signals for Jason to enter. Jason enters the room. El Dorro said, "You're Jason, right?" Jason said, "Yeah, I am. El Dorro?" The El Dorro said, "I have read so much about you. For years I have read books and comics that are banned and were ordered to be destroyed. I read them all before they were destroyed. You guys are depicted as heroes in them that kick the crap out of Clock King. I really got a good laugh when I read that one where Clock King lives at home with his mother. I also read that one where a green foul-smelling alien moves in his house and develops an extra special relationship with Clock King's mom." Jason said, "That does sound really funny. That is what happens in the universe I am from." El Dorro said, "I started to get that idea. I think it would be awesome if we had someone other than Clock King rule the Ultraverse. I read a lot about you from myths and illegal books. Something tells me you are an awesome friend." Jason said, "We would be friends if Clock King was not in command of everything." El Dorro shows Jason to a section that contains time travelling equipment and a large battle robot. El Dorro said, "This is where Clock King keeps his stash."

Clock King said, "Even though I depicted you as people that should have been killed by me in my museum, I am still going to give you a chance to live as average Clock King worshipping citizens of my Ultraverse." Mason said, "I would..." The wall explodes and Jason is controlling Clock King's mech. Jason pounds Clock King into the ground. Jason opens a door on the mech and Mason and Captain Fusion enter the mech. Jason smashes through the wall of the pyramid. Mason and Captain Fusion watch Jason control the mech. Jason said, "I have plotted a course for the lair." Clock King uses rockets in his feet and he zips really fast and is right behind the mech. Jason runs through the main city destroying everything in its path. Clock King closely follows behind. Jason finally gets to the lair and Captain Fusion presses buttons on his watch and the shrink ray is activated and it makes Clock King's mech shrink small and it goes inside the lair. Clock King stops at the lair and he sees it is just a box on a tree.

Jason, Mason, and Captain Fusion are in the lair and they rush and grab a bunch of computers and equipment and they load them into the mech. Jason finds a case of orange soda and he hugs it and he said, "I still have you, love of my life." The lair starts to violently quake. Clock King rips the lair off the tree and he throws it to the ground. Clock King is about to crush the lair with his foot and, Jason, Mason, and Captain Fusion escape the lair in Clock King's mech and the mech is sent into orbit. Clock King destroys Captain Fusion's lair.

Jason, Mason, and Captain Fusion are in Clock King's mech in orbit. They look down at the planet and they see structures of Clock King all over the earth that are so grand they can be seen from space. Captain Fusion said, "Here's what we know. We know Clock King went far back before the Ultraverse was created. This technology Jason stole with my combined technology will be able to track the exact time and location of where Clock King was when he altered our history. He is going to put up a big fight so we must be prepared." Jason, Mason, and Captain Fusion are suited in armored space suits. Jason loads the inside of his space suit with orange soda cans. Mason designs a control scheme for battle stations. Captain Fusion leaves the mech and he installs tracking radars on the outside of the mech. Mason works on the computer systems and he gets the time matrix to run. Jason stands on the sidelines watching Mason and Captain Fusion work on things.

Mason unveils the finished battle station design to Jason and Captain Fusion. Mason said, "Captain Fusion's station is designed with sleek red and black since it is his signature colors. My battle station is designed in a sophisticated white and blue since it suits my style. Jason's is made to look like a baby toy since I think it suits his personality." Jason sees his battle station looks like a baby toy with large colored buttons and large colored joysticks. Jason gives Mason a stern look. Mason said, "Let's track this Clock King." They all get to their battle stations. Captain Fusion activates the time tracker. Captain Fusion said, "I have samples of Clock King's DNA. This machine of mine can track where Clock King was at a given time." A long list of coordinates appears on a screen. Captain Fusion said, "We know where to go." The three of them make the mech go back in time to Clock King's coordinates.

Clock King is in a void of nothingness and he is about to craft his Ultraverse. The mech shows up and smacks him and he spins through space. Clock King said, "What the! They found me." Jason, Mason, and Captain Fusion utilize the weapons on the mech and they fire volleys of lasers and rockets at Clock King. Clock King dodges all those. Clock King takes out his scepter and he takes the top off it showing it is a spear. Clock King uses the spear and he cuts all the weapons off the mech. Clock King jabs the spear into the mech and the mech explodes sending, Jason, Mason, and Captain Fusion out into space. Jason, Mason, and Captain Fusion make themselves go to Clock King and they fight Clock King. Clock King pounds Jason in the head and sends Jason spinning away. Mason uses a ray gun and he fires at Clock King and Clock King uses his spear and he knocks the ray gun out of Mason's hand. Captain Fusion defends Mason by fighting Clock

King. Clock King smacks Captain Fusion and it does nothing. Captain Fusion smacks Clock King in the face and his digital clock head showing 11:34 gets cracked. Clock King zips to Captain Fusion again and Captain Fusion smashes Clock King's head and it breaks in two and circuits leak out of his clock head. Clock King said, "Now you've done it." Clock King uses his spear and he attacks Captain Fusion with it. He sends it one way and Captain Fusion dodges it and he sends it the other way and Captain Fusion dodges it. Clock King makes an unexpected move and he jabs Captain Fusion with the spear and his space suit breaks and Captain Fusion goes hurling off into space. Jason and Mason's eyes go big. Mason grabs onto Captain Fusion and he places tape on the break in the space suit. Mason helps Captain Fusion and Clock King stabs Mason's space suit with his spear while Clock King holds on tightly to Jason's head. Mason loses his air and he slowly falls back into space.

Jason yells, "You son of a..." Clock King said, "I have a proposition for you. I know you were just doing what you were doing because it is what you were told to do. I understand you are not smart which is not your fault so you should not be held responsible for something like that. The people that had a bad influence on you are no more. You can live with me and we can make things the way we want them to be. I will let you have several universes filled with orange soda. How does that sound?" Jason yells, "Suck it!" Clock King said, "Suit yourself." Clock King stabs his spear into Jason's space suit and orange soda leaks out of it. The orange soda gets into Clock King's opened head and it causes his inside circuits to malfunction. Clock King yells, what is happening!" Clock King malfunctions and he explodes and causes a big bang sending, Jason, Mason, and Captain Fusion through space while Clock King is no more and the Ultraverse is formed (as it should be) in Clock King's place.

The Ultraverse and all the universes return to normal. Everything in all the universes is back as it should be. Jason, Mason, and Captain Fusion go about their day-to-day lives in San Francisco with no sign of Clock King as he is dead with a big bang. In a universe of the Ultraverse that did not exist before, people live in a utopian world and they build statues of their gods and worship their gods, Jason, Mason, and Captain Fusion. They have holy books that are documentations of all their adventures and they go to large elaborate buildings with stained glass of Jason, Mason, and Captain Fusion and they worship them as such.

This idea was made by Soupotown70 (Creating Creator on Deviant Art). He deserves special thanks for making this work possible.